

Friday 29th January

Well done, another week down. Make sure you have a restful weekend- take some time to have fun and be silly!

Shall we all wake ourselves up today by dancing along to some sticky kids? It's always fun to wiggle and jiggle in the morning. What songs will you pick today? There is even a dinosaur song!

Back to phonics, re-watch the video on the website to remind you of the qu sound. Make sure when you write q you get a nice sharp point at the end. Have a go at some qu words like quiz, quid, quit. See if you can write these words. Adults can you then write quack, quick and quill for children to read.

Carrying on with time, let's now think of 3 key times in the day, morning, afternoon and night.

Can you think of all the different things you do at these times? Draw some pictures to show you in the morning, afternoon and nighttime. So in the morning you may be brushing your teeth, in the afternoon you could be playing games and at nighttime you could be going bed?

Some more baking now and thinking of dinosaurs shall we make some rock cakes? Now don't worry they aren't actual rocks! Try and follow this recipe but you could add some extra yummy things if you wanted.

<https://www.bbcgoodfood.com/recipes/rock-cakes>

Have a wonderful day and a lovely weekend

Mrs Edlin

Stegosaurus fossil