

Tuesday 12th May

Good morning, I hope you enjoyed looking through the Spanish web-sites Mrs Garner sent you yesterday.

English - Viewpoints from different perspectives.

If you haven't already done so, do a little research around VE day. You can watch the following Newsround clip and Primary Homework Help for ideas.

Imagine you were around at the time, you can write from the viewpoint of a soldier returning home, a family member or friend relieved to see the ending of the War. Write a blog entry detailing information about the period, include emotive language and don't forget blogs are informal. You can include a photograph, image or drawing.

Maths - Fractions

Have a go at playing this interactive fraction game. You can choose your level appropriate to your learning and choose from either fractions or mixed numbers.

Art - Viewpoints and Mood

Look around a room in your home and think about how it makes you feel. Draw an image linked to the emotion or draw an object from the room and colour, shade or paint how it reflects your current mood.

Have a lovely day and take care,

Mrs Williams
