Maths

Today, we would like you to work through the attached PowerPoint. Have a go at calculating the area of the shapes before you click on the answers!

English

For English this week, we are going to be looking at writing a non-chronological report about the Tamar Bridge in the style of a leaflet.

First, we need to understand what a non-chronological report is. What are the features and what does this look like? Perhaps you have some leaflets lying around the house, or you could look online?

Have a look at the shark fact file (See attached). Can you find and highlight all the features of a non-chronological report? Use the checklist to help you (See attached).

Topic/History

Today we are going to find out about the gruesome process of mummification!

Before we begin, have some fun with someone in your family.

You need to have a full toilet roll.

You have just 2 minutes (time yourselves). Working as a pair, one of you will be the body, and the other will be the mummifier.

Mummifier, you must wrap 'the body' as neatly as you can in the time allowed! Ready, steady, WRAP!

Send me a picture if you can!

Now let's find out how it was really done!

Look at the bbc website below:

Can you fill in the gaps?
