

Wednesday 13th May

Hi all, did you manage to make the lollies? How were they. I made some and thought they were so yummy, I didn't want to share!

Continuing with letter formation again today but this time moving onto robot arm letters. This is when you have to start by going down and then back up and over.

Start with r, b, n and h today. Make sure the n and h look different, it should be a big tall horse!

Another number activity for maths. Adults can you write down different numbers and children you have to make that amount. You can use anything you want to count out amounts up to 20. Try lego, pencils, stones or even ice cubes!

Outdoor activity now! Some of you may have already seen this or even made one but a really lovely decoration for your home can be made using sticks! During your walks or maybe in your garden see if you can collect some different size sticks. Then pick a shape like a heart, star or even a football and draw it onto some cardboard. Now ask an adult to help you glue the sticks on, you could even paint it afterwards.

I'm going to have a go at making some too!

Lots of love

Miss Edlin
